Whilst the specific criteria for what constitutes a Large Practice of the Year is that it is comprised of five or more people and has not fallen below five for a period of not less than twelve months immediately prior to the award ceremony, any other criteria may apply, such as: it is expected that nominated practices will have achieved significant success. This could be, by having established a solid reputation; serviced clients for a number of years; expanded in terms of turnover; staffing or client numbers; or a practice that has used effective marketing to promote itself and ICB; or perhaps a practice that has achieved a high level of praise from clients or external partners; it might also be a practice that is able to demonstrate that it has contributed to an ICB branch or region; or has undertaken activities which have assisted a charity or the wider community.
